A BIG MEETING IN THE MARTINSBURG COURT HOUSE.

A Compliment to McKinley, Elkins and Dayton
—The Torchlight Procession and Banquet
—Chrysanthemums for Mr. Chase.

Special to THE BEE.

MARTINSBURG, W. VA., Nov. 3.—One of the largest meetings ever held in this place was in the Court House this evening. Editor W. Calvin Chase, of THE WASHINGTON BEE, was the central figure. He arrived here on the 5:45 train and was met at the depot by a committee consisting of Jacob Turner, J. W. Corsey, Dr. F. M. Ovelton, Joseph Greene, Alexander Wood and Thomas Ellis, and driven to the residence of Mr. George Sampson 111 Charles street, where he took supper, preparatory to the parade and meeting. At 7:30 Mr. Chase administered a place in line with the committee, Dr.

ryman, Mrs. John Dickson and hundred others.
Mr. J. W. Corsey who was so active in the interest of Congressman Dayton is one of the best known republicans in the state. M. P.

Ending of the Coal Strike.

From the Literary Digest.

The general resumption of work in the Pennsylvania coal-mines, as the result of President Mitchell's edict of October 25, calling off the strike in all mines where the operators had conceded a ten-per-cent. increase in wages, is greeted by the press with expressions of great satisfaction. Practically all the large coal-operators having now granted the demands of the men, it is believed that this great labor struggle, which has lasted for several weeks, is now definitely concluded. In his official statement President Mitchell declares:

"We are aware that some disappointment and dissatisfaction have been caused by the failure of the operators to advance in the price of powder from the advance in wages; but after careful inquiry we are satisfied that each mine the month was 681, of whom 335 were at large, 149 in institutions at expense of the board, 106 in boarding homes, 98 in free homes and 7 in free institutions; the number of temporary wards at that time was 11.

The report of the physician showed sixty professional visits made to twenty-nine children. Two wards died during October.

Including transfers from one home to another, fifteen children were placed in free homes in October.

The agents were authorized to ask the court to set aside the permanent commitment of certain wards for whom persons interested desired to make other provision.

This being the annual meeting an election of officers for the ensuing year was held. Mr. James B. T. Uppier was elected president, Mr. Wm. J. Miller was re-elected vice president and Mr. B. P. Mann was re-elected secretary. Mr. Miller declined the office to which he had been chosen, stating that he had held it several times. Mr. John F. Cook was then elected vice president.

A NEW SHOE STORE.

Heilbrum & Co. Take Possession of Their New Quarters.

The "Old Woman in the Shoe," who has for many years been such a prominent figure in front of the shoe store of Messrs. Heilbrum & Co., on Seventh street, is back at her old stand again, and while her features may not indicate it, she must feel exceedingly proud of her new and beautiful surroundings.

On Thursday morning last, Heilbrum & Co. took possession of their new double store 402-404 Seventh street, in the same location where they have served their patrons for many years.

On the opening days—Thursday, Friday, and Saturday—their store was thronged from morning until night with patrons, friends, and well-wishers, and President McKinley, it has been clearly proved, beyond any doubt, that he did prepare some mention of the conditions in the South affecting the colored voters, and submitted it to Bishop Arnett, who advised him against saying anything. Upon that advice the president struck out the clause. Colored men, not only in Ohio, but throughout the country became vigorously opposed to the president in consequence. Bishop Arnett knew of the opposition, but never once came to the front and manfully acknowledged that he (the bishop) was responsible for the failure of the president to say anything, but allowed the president to rest under the charge without a word. It leaked out however, and colored men exonerated the president and turned their fire on Bishop Arnett, and thus ended the opposition to the president, who has done more for colored men than any president in recent years.

THE INDUSTRIAL DIRECTOR.

Will the Rule be followed? He will be the Assistant.

There is a great deal of talk going on relative to the new director of the colored industrial school. The Board of Education in designating all the colored principals and directors assistants will no doubt designate the director of the new colored industrial school an assistant. Whether Prof. James H. Hill, the present director of the colored schools, will be the man, is a conjecture.

Prof. Hill has made a good and efficient officer but, whether his present methods suit the new board is a question that will be settled when the school has been completed. The talk is, however, that the board will have a new assistant and he must enter the examination. Just why this should be is not clearly set forth. Prof. Hill, coln Memorial church, corner of 11th and R streets, Northwest, Tuesday afternoon last, at three o'clock. There was a large and distinguished number of his friends and acquaintances present.

Rev. Dr. Miller preached the sermon which was pathetic and eloquent. He stated that Mr. Brown was conscious up to the time of his death. He called his faithful wife, Rose, to his bedside and told her that his time had come, and for her not to grieve after him. His brother Marshall was also by his bedside and his last request was to help his wife, who had been faithful, and true to them all.

Rev. Miller also stated that Mr. Brown was a good man, and several months before his death he intended to join his church; but being sick and unable to come at the time, he went to him, and it was then that Mr. Brown said that he was prepared to die. At the conclusion of his sermon, Rev. Miller read a long poem composed by Mr. Brown's Uncle, Prof. Solomon G. Brown of Hillsdale, D. C., one of Washington's pioneers. At its conclusion, the Secretary of Peter Ogden Lodge, No. 2374, G. U. O. of O. F., read a set of resolutions of condolence that were adopted at a special meeting of the Order of which the deceased

A POSITIVE REBUKE TO HIM—THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

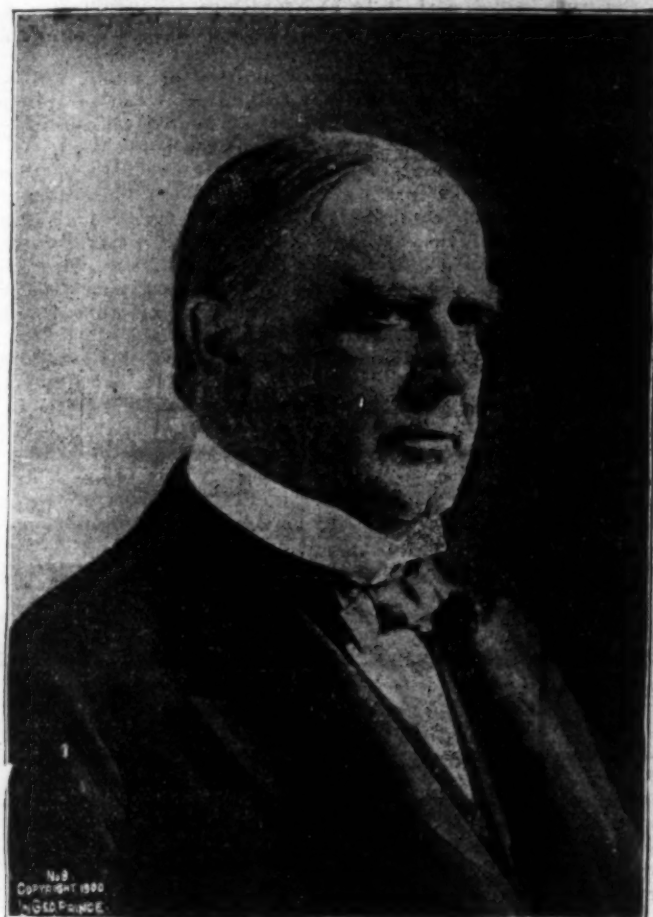

Has Continued Prosperity for the Country
—There is No Such Word as Fall-Hanna—
The Working Man Will Have a Full Dinner
Pail For Four More Years.

The excitement and confusion caused by Mr. Bryan for the last three months, was, as the THE BEE predicted all on the service. There were many weak-hearts and minds, but underlying all that the solid people knew what they intend to do. Mr. Bryan made a great deal of noise and bluster but it did not amount to anything.

for the country by the re-election of President McKinley. Senator Hanna at the Philadelphia convention knew what he was saying when he declared at

GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT,
Vice-President Elect.

Ovelton and Prof. J. W. Corsey. The torchlight procession paraded the principal streets, headed by the Echo Cornet Band, after which it proceeded to the Court House which was packed from the benches to the street.

Mr. Chase entered the Court House with Dr. Ovelton and Prof. Corsey amid the applause of the large audience. Hon. Charles H. Wolfers, Chairman of the Republican Committee called the meeting to order and introduced as its first speaker Mr. Lane a prominent white Republican of Martinsburg, W. Va., who made a reply to the attack upon him by Mr. Lee Ph arson of North Carolina, who had spoken the night previous, and who declared among other things that the negro had too many rights, that he was satisfied with what he had. He said the negro was responsible for the Jim Crow Car law, and the democrats of North Carolina were the negroes' friends.

Several hundred white boys who were present hissed him down and with much difficulty on the part of a veteran white republican Pearson was permitted to go on interrupted by hisses and cat calls.

Mr. W. Calvin Chase, at the conclusion of Mr. Lane speech was introduced. He paid a high compliment to President McKinley's administration and Senator Elkins and Congressman Dayton. His reference to these distinguished men elicited great applause. In speaking of the administration of President McKinley, Mr. Chase said: that no President had done as much for the negro as he had. All that the negro has ever expected and shall receive will be from the republican party. A great deal has been said about trusts, gold and silver, but the greatest thing that affects the negro and the American people and more especially the negro are civil and political liberty, and human rights which are denied the black man. There has never been a law enacted by any republican that has tended to abridge the rights of the negro.

At the conclusion of Mr. Chase's speech Miss M. Lee, presented him with a bunch of Chrysanthemums about five feet in circumference.

Chairman Ovelton in his closing speech made an eloquent appeal to the Republicans of West Virginia to cast their votes for the Republican party. He invited those present to escort the speakers to the residence of Mrs. Perry, 402, 412 W. Martin street, where a banquet was tendered Mr. Chase. Mrs. Scott is an estimable lady and very influential among the voters. Among some of the most prominent at the banquet were Messrs. James Smith, farmer, Rev. W. Ford, Lee, Miller, Amos Holly, J. Carter, L. Payne, G. B. Preston, Miss W. Ber-

In the Schuylkill and Lehigh regions the largest companies have agreed that the sliding scale should be suspended, and that wages should remain stationary at ten per cent. until April 1, 1901, thus removing one of the inequities of which you have complained for many years.

"While it is true that you have not secured redress for all of your wrongs; while it is true that the increase in your earnings will not fully compensate you for the arduous labor you are compelled to perform in the mines, you have established a powerful organization, which, if maintained and conducted on business principles, will enable you to regulate many of your local grievances and make your employment less hazardous and more profitable than before the strike began."

BOARD OF GUARDIANS.

Annual Meeting Held and Officers Elected—Other Matters.

A regular meeting of the board of children's guardians was held Saturday evening, Nov. 3, 1900. The members present were: Mrs. J. W. Babson, Mrs. M. L. D. Macfarland and Messrs. John F. Cook, B. Hickman M. Wm. J. Miller, Louis Stern and James T. Tupper. Agents Samuel S. Perkman and John W. Dougless were also in attendance. Vice President Miller occupied the chair. A letter from Dr. M. D. Peck explained the absence of Dr. Peck due to illness.

After routine business and reading reports of committees the monthly reports of the agents were considered, and several expenditures authorized. Messrs. Uppier and Parkman presented a report as delegates of the board to the meeting of the national conference of charities and corrections held at Topeka, Kan., May 18 to 24, 1900. This report was ordered to be transmitted to the board of charities as part of the annual report of the board of children's guardians for the fiscal year 1900.

The agents' reports showed eight children to be—a handsome souvenir was presented to all.

It is completely stocked with high-grade shoes for ladies, men, and children—and in the same durable qualities that have always characterized this house.

George Meyers Talks.

From the Columbus, O., Dispatch.

Mr. George A. Meyers, colored member of the Republican state executive committee, commenting on the part colored voters will take in the election, said:

"There is no question but what there was considerable disaffection among the 35,000 colored voters in Ohio at the beginning of the campaign. This was caused by the article of Governor Roosevelt in Scribner's Magazine, regarding the action of the colored troops at San Juan and the failure of President McKinley to say anything in his annual message respecting the lynchings and disfranchisement of colored men in the south. Thousands of colored men had simply read one little paragraph in Governor Roosevelt's article, as circulated by the Democrats and drew conclusions from that. The fact of the matter is the article was not a disparagement of colored troops, but only of one or two, and if colored men had been as quick to read the article in its entirety as they were to draw conclusions from one little paragraph which meant nothing, there would have been no cause for criticism of the Republican vice presidential candidate. Governor Roosevelt fully explained himself, however, in a speech in which he unreservedly gave credit to the heroism of colored troops, not only at San Juan, but on every battle field on which they fought, and that ended the objection to Roosevelt.

"Now respecting the opposition to if competent, should like all the others, be designated the assistant which will prevent the appointment of a new assistant. The industrial committee should not in this case go on the outside. It is not necessary. There is good material in the colored schools sufficient to place at the head of the new school if Prof. Hill is not to be the recognized assistant. There is no man more qualified than Prof. Hill. He may not be able to make long winded reports, but he can explain and teach all that is necessary. There certainly should be one head in the industrial departments. Then there would not be any conflict of authority. All of the departments should be in one building. Perhaps, by the time the new building is finished the new assistant will then have been selected.

ROBERT R. BROWN DEAD.

Better known "Uncle Bob." A Man of Integrity and Honor. A Friend to a Friend.

Robert R. Brown, who for a number of years, has been a central figure in the affairs of the city, is dead. He died at his residence corner of 12th and Q streets, n. w., last Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock. He was the son of the late Marshall Brown, a member of the Common Council of this city. Mr. Brown was formerly a member of the fire department several years ago, which position he held with credit, and on the account of being injured at a fire he was compelled to resign. In politics Mr. Brown was an uncompromising republican. He was a friend to his friends and an enemy to his enemies. He was always diplomatic, notwithstanding any political feeling he may have had against those who opposed his politics. He was no coward. He gave those who attempted to invade his household, to know that he was a man. He was a race man above petty jealousies.

He leaves a most loving and industrious wife. A woman who always studied her husband's interests. She is a woman of fine business qualities and highly respected for her business and womanly traits.

Mr. Brown was buried from Lin-was a member. This Order turned out in full uniform which made the ceremony more impressive.

The floral designs were numerous and beautiful, and the great number of friends and acquaintances in attendance was an evidence of the high esteem in which the deceased was held. The church was packed from the pulpit to the streets. There were hundreds who were unable to gain admittance. At the conclusion of the ceremonies the people were allowed to view the remains.

The casket was a handsome oak with silver handles, made by Mr. Jas. H. Dabney, who personally directed the funeral. At 4:15 the remains of Robert R. Brown, who was loved, honored and respected were conveyed to the Harmony Cemetery and placed in the vault.

Quite a Difference.

During Republican administrations the interest-bearing debt of the United States was reduced from nearly 2,400 millions of dollars to 585 millions, at an average rate of about 67 millions of dollars a year.

During Cleveland's administration this debt was increased nearly 50 per cent, at the rate of 66 millions of dollars a year, an increase of about 90 millions more than the cost of the Spanish and Philippine war, and this was done by the Democrats in time of peace.

THE SHIP OF STATE.

President McKinley Receives Flowers.

Yesterday afternoon, representatives from the M. M. Parker and W. Calvin Chase Republican Clubs, consisting of District Assessor H. H. Darnell, representing the M. M. Parker Club and W. Calvin Chase, Attorneys T. L. Jones and J. W. Patterson, representing the W. Calvin Chase Republican Clubs, presented President McKinley a handsome ship made of flowers.

The ship was about seven feet long and five feet high, with the inscription on the side, "The Ship of State."

Mr. Chase introduced the Committee and Assessor Darnell made the presentation speech to the President. The President made a brief response and said looking at Mr. Chase, "your people, meaning the colored people, made a gallant fight and I am pleased."

the conclusion of his opening address, that, "there is no such word as fall," may have fell on the minds of the world, like a cold blanket, but the loyal and patriotic Republicans knew what the result would be, hence they worked to that end.

The defeat of the Democratic ticket was a just rebuke to unscrupulous demagogues, who have no love for a prosperous and progressive country. Bryanism is no more. He and his followers will go down in history as Tal yron went down with the French people.

THE W. CALVIN CHASE CLUB AND M. M. PARKER CLUB.

Over 1,000 in Line for the Inauguration—A Great Political Organization—A Staff of One Hundred Select Men.

The M. M. Parker and the W. Calvin Chase Republican Clubs, representing the 22 legislative districts in this city and containing members representing every State in the Union, will on the 4th day of March turn out over one thousand Republican. These two clubs are the strongest in city of Washington.

The M. M. Parker Club will be commanded by Mr. Aaron Bradshaw who has a membership of over two hundred. The Executive Committee of the two clubs has not as yet decided on the uniform. Quite likely, the uniform will be full dress, black Prince Albert suits, black silk hats and red, white and blue umbrellas. There will be a staff of one hundred mounted men who will precede the club in the parade, headed by two bands of music. The appearance of these two clubs will be greater than it was when they left this city for Philadelphia June 18th.

Each district will carry a small banner, designating the districts they represent. The mounted staff will no doubt have different uniforms from the clubs. Attorney J. W. Patterson, chief of the mounted staff will call his members together and very soon and decide on the style of the uniform. Full particulars will appear in THE BEE next week.

WORKING FOR THE TICKET.

What the W. Calvin Chase Club Was Doing.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the W. Calvin Chase Republican Club No. 1, was held on last Monday night with over one hundred members present and selected the following men to go in several counties in Maryland to help the ticket.

Messrs. Freeman and Bampfied were sent to Bladensburg. Charles Crutch, to Chesapeake Beach, Messrs. Gordon, W. Freeman, George Bowie and John Randall to Rockville, Mellentre to Chesapeake Beach and twenty other voting members went to Virginia.

HE BEATS THE RECORD.

Why Joseph M. Houston is Entitled to Consider Himself the Most Unlucky Man on Earth.

Joseph M. Houston, of Omaha, claims to be the unluckiest man in the country. He is still young in years, but ten of these he has spent in the hospital wards of various institutions, and he can boast of more amputations, accidents, operations and other serious surgical experiences than the average ten men can boast of together in a lifetime.

Houston's parents died while he was still a baby, and the first of fate's peculiar visitations occurred when the boy was five years old, when a horse kicked three ribs into small bits for him. He had hardly recovered from this mishap and was taking an airing along a country road in a wagon accompanied by his nurse, when a grapevine caught him on the roadside and a piece of his cheek was torn off.

The next thing that happened to bring Houston into association with the hospital doctors was in Chicago, when he lost a finger while accidentally touching a live wire. He went to Alabama and experimented with nitric acid. The result was that his face was horribly burned and he spent several months in a hospital at Tusculum.

Hardly was he out of it and had gone to Memphis when another horse kicked him into a Tennessee hospital with a fractured leg.

Houston journeyed to the Pacific coast to change his luck and the second day of his visit in Frisco he fell out of a second story window while watching a parade and fractured his skull. He left the Golden Gate to journey inland and fell from a freight train, losing an arm and a leg. He spent the next two months in a hospital at Minneapolis and then another accident brought him under the care of doctors in the Petersburg, Va., hospital.

The dates that he "struck it wrong," Houston says, are the 4th, 17th and 18th of the month.

CAT AND COPPERHEAD.

They Had a Fight to a Finish from Which the Demure Little Kitten Emerged Victor.

According to the Cincinnati Enquirer a unique fight took place in Home City the other afternoon. A kitten belonging to Mrs. Best "hooked up" with a copperhead snake in the yard of the Best home and in consequence there is now a dead snake in Home City. The snake was lying near the fence sunning itself, when the kitten espied it. The latter, evidently prompted by a spirit of curiosity, scratched the snake's back. His snakeship resented the familiarity and retaliated by coiling and striking at the kitten. The kitten saved its life by its nimbleness in dodging the copperhead's fangs. Then began a battle that lasted for about ten minutes. The kitten worried the life out of the snake by its rapid evolutions around her enemy's flank. All the while the snake was coiling and striking the cat was dodging this way and that with the quickness that characterizes the cat family. Finally when an opening presented itself and the snake was almost worn out by its exertions, the kitten made a jump and landed on the snake's back. Its claws were buried in the snake's skin, and with its mouth the cat got Mr. Snake by the neck and fairly shook the life out. When passersby, who had been attracted by the commotion in the bushes, arrived on the scene Mr. Snake was in the throes of death, and the kitten was peacefully licking its chops and bathing its face.

Vest Pocket Breweries.

The little beer tablets that have lately come into use in some of the German cities are considered a desideratum. A lover of the beverage can carry a little brewery in his vest pocket. One of the tablets, dropped into a glass of water, instantly converts it into a glass of foaming beer.

COLORED WASH LADIES.

Refuse to Work for White People at Lyons, Ga., on Account of a School Bond Issue.

The colored "wash ladies" of Lyons, Ga., have struck. They do not demand higher wages, nor the recognition of any union. They do not claim that their hours are too long, or that their work is too hard. They do not resent the introduction of labor-saving machinery. They do not even demand that they retain their time-honored right of letting a hot smoothing iron rest on the bosom of a white shirt while they go into the kitchen to put the pot on for the old man.

They have struck, says the St. Louis Republic, because the people of Lyons ons have voted for bonds, from the proceeds of the sale of which they will build a schoolhouse.

Now, the wash ladies wish it to be distinctly understood that they are not opposed to education. They are in favor of it. Brother Johnson, who teaches, and Brother Licurgus Moore, who preaches, are favorites with the wash ladies, and they are men of letters who can read without spelling the words.

But what the wash ladies object to is that the new schoolhouse is to be for the sole use of white children.

Therefore, the wash ladies claim that they are taxed without representation. For they point out that they will help to pay the taxes that will pay the interest and form the sinking fund for the redemption of the bonds; and, besides that, all their property will be "mortgaged" as long as the bonds are in force.

And so they have gone on a strike. They have decided, in resolutions that have a great many "whereases," that they will do no more washing for the "white women" of the town until the bonds are canceled. They will neither "take de clo'es home" nor "wash 'em at de whi' folks' house." They will not wash them anywhere.

And there the situation rests. So far, there have been no parades with transparencies and banners, and the sheriff has not asked the governor for troops to prevent or put down rioting. But the wash tubs are idle, the washboards lean unmolested against the side of the house, and the soap and bluing markets are stagnant.

HAIRPIN RUINED HIM.

inal world from the finding of a bent hairpin when 13 years of age. His mother had locked him in the closet for some boyish misdemeanor, and with the hairpin he managed to unlock the door and escape. When arrested a hairpin was found in his pocket, which he had carried ever since he found it eight years ago. He said:

"When 13 years of age my mother locked me in a closet and refused to let me out. It was dark and I was frightened. I laid down on the floor, and one of my hands touched something. It was a bent hairpin. With this I managed to pick the lock. Putting the hairpin into my pocket, I went out to find the boys. One day I wanted money with which to buy cigarettes. My mother wouldn't give me any. With the hairpin I picked the lock of the drawer in which she kept her money and helped myself. After that it was always easy to get money. My father wanted me to go to work, but I would not. I could get all the cash I wanted by means of the hairpin. Now I am going back to Kansas City, and will doubtless go over the road for several years."

Evolution of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Sir George Williams, Founder of the Society, Talks About Its Social, Educational and Spiritual Advantages.

Writing of the evolution of the Y. M. C. A., Sir George Williams, its founder, says in the Chicago Tribune that the association began in a small way—in fact, with only 12 men; that was 56 years ago, now it is represented by more than half a million members, divided into some 7,000 different centers, scattered all over the world. These are organized into national unions, and these again into one comprehensive international union. Its inception may be said to date from June 6, 1844, when some of my fellow workers met together at the close of one of our weekly prayer meetings to consider the importance and practicability of establishing a society for improving the spiritual condition of young men engaged in the drapery and other trades. Our first headquarters consisted of a small room in a coffee-house, for which we paid half a crown a week rent. Soon, when this accommodation was found too small for the increasing number of members, we removed to Badley's hotel, Blackfriars, where we had the use of a good room. Two years after its foundation branch associations were established in Piccadilly, Islington, Fimlico, Southwark and Whitechapel, and at Manchester, Liverpool, Taunton, Exeter and Leeds. In 1848 we were obliged to make another move, this time to rooms in Gresham street, where we were able to found a library. The association gradually increased its influence year by year, and in 1880 we were in a position to purchase the freehold of Exeter hall (for £25,000).

The first social departure of the association may be said to have begun at the end of 1845, when the committee adopted a new form of popularizing instruction and information by giving a course of weekly lectures on useful and entertaining subjects.

At the present time the social and educational advantages to be obtained from the association at its various branches are many, and besides lectures and libraries may be mentioned debating societies, language classes, chess clubs, restaurants, gymnasia and all sorts of athletic clubs.

Some idea of the vastness of the association may be gathered from the following figures, which are taken from the last annual report. In Great Britain and Ireland there are 1,054 centers and 1,585 auxiliary associations, with something like 120,000 members, while in foreign countries there are (not British possessions) there are over 5,000 centers, and nearly as many auxiliary associations, with a membership of close on half a million; must one forget that had it not been for the Young Men's Christian association that excellent sister society, the Young Women's Christian association, would probably never have come into existence.

In America the movement has taken even stronger foothold, and since 1851, both in Canada and the United States, a systematic effort has resulted in a large organization. Amongst their many agencies which have had their origin in American association, may be mentioned the now well-known Society for the Suppression of Vice. Needless to say, the American association, like its prototype in England, has for its main object the improvement of the spiritual, mental, social and physical condition of young men.

"The youth of a nation are the trustees of its posterity," and the incalculable services the association has rendered to young men in teaching them to keep their minds and bodies pure and healthy, and helping them to lead higher, nobler lives, earn for it the gratitude of all right-thinking men and women.

Tuesday's Election.

The election last Tuesday meant that the policies of the present administration are satisfactory to the American people. It demonstrated the fact that President McKinley has been and is right in the conduct of the affairs of this government and has guarded well the interests of the people.

It also showed that the people have confidence in the President and his policies, and that it would be dangerous to change the affairs of this government by placing them in the hands of a man like Mr. Bryan. The element that was behind Mr. Bryan was composed of anarchists, nihilists, and men who have no regard for good government.

The triumph of the party on last Tuesday has several meanings. It is a reminder to the republican party that the American people do not endorse the blood and murder policy of the democratic party South, and that it is absolutely necessary for the next congress which has a majority of 54, to reduce the unlawful representation of its southern membership in those states which has disfranchised so many thousands of legal voters on account of their color. It is firmly believed that President McKinley will do his duty as he has always done in protecting those who are unable to protect themselves. Stringent measures should be used to subdue that disturbing element in the Philippines and compel all other nations to recognize American authority. The people demand that the policies already adopted by the administration shall be carried out. The defeat of Bryan and the democratic party was a rebuke as well as a positive repudiation of his doctrine and the unscrupulous principles of the democratic party.

The American people may be peculiar in their ideas sometimes; they are quick to be made angry, but they have sense enough to know when they are filled with political rot, such as Bryan has been given them for four years.

Let representation in the South be reduced.

The Negro was Loyal.

Long before the renomination of President McKinley The Bee was for him. The Bee was for him when thousands of disgruntled editors were opposed to him. The Bee was the only Afro American Journal that supported the administration from the first nomination of the President, and after his first election, up to now. The Bee is never wrong. The democratic party has been inspired with the idea that one half of the negro voting strength would vote for Bryan. Indeed, it is gratifying to know that not one thousand negroes voted the democratic ticket. It was fully demonstrated in this campaign that the paid, hired and bought negroes, otherwise known as negro democrats had no effect on the intelligent colored voters. The Negro was loyal to the President.

Senator Quay.

The Bee congratulates Senator M. S. Quay on his magnificent victory in his state on last Tuesday. It is an indication and a positive one at that, that Senator Quay is the choice of the people of Penn. Notwithstanding his defeat last winter, he was loyal to the administration, rolled up a handsome majority for the President last Tuesday. Senator Quay will return to the Senate.

Working for Rudd.

The colored republicans of Maryland, Prince E. Studds, Emanuel Simms, J. A. Melontree, John Freeman, and others of the W. Calvin Chase Republican Club rendered great service in Maryland last Tuesday in the Bladensburg district, which is a part of the Hon. Sidney K. Mudd's district, who was one of the successful members elected.

It was a landslide.

Perhaps the two democratic parties in the city will come together now.

Senator Jones is a far-seeing man.

There must have been a speck in his eye glasses on last Tuesday.

The colored democrat has gone into his hole.

They cut a very small figure in the present campaign.

Lee Phearson will no doubt be a wiser man.

There were many fooled on last Tuesday.

THE BEE was right and so was McKinley.

The Editor has always told you, when you see it in THE BEE it is true.

THE BEE predicted the reelection of President McKinley.

Ben. Tillman has not said a word.

Tillman and his pitch-fork will keep, no doubt until harvest time.

Now let us have a few Republicans appointed.

Some of Bryan's democratic chiefs in the departments should be directed to the front door.

VENGEANCE FOR CHINESE.

Slayers of Christians Punished by General Richardson.

TAKU, Nov. 8.—General Richardson has been administering punishment to the killers of native Christians. The British shot two chiefs and burned a large number of houses. On Oct. 30 General Richardson met 500 imperial troops commanded by General Fan. Both sides advanced for a parley, but owing to an unfortunate misunderstanding an Indian trumpeter shot General Fan dead. The trumpeter was arrested, and the incident was explained to the Chinese, the two forces then proceeding by different routes. General Richardson burned two villages, the places where Messrs. Robinson and Norman, the missionaries, were murdered, and demanded that the city of Yang-ching should pay 40,000 taels as compensation to the families of the victims. The payment was guaranteed. Three other villages were burned near Sang-fang Nov. 4.

Emperor to Return to Peking.

REPUBLICANS GAINING.

Unprecedented Electoral Vote For McKinley and Roosevelt.

SENATE AND HOUSE REPUBLICAN

New York's Majority For Odell Over 100,000 and For McKinley Electors 145,000—Both Parties Claim Kentucky, and Idaho is in Doubt. Latest News From Nebraska Seems to Indicate Defeat of Fusionists.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Chief among the developments as to the election is the transferring of Nebraska from the list of doubtful states to the long list of those states whose voters pronounced in favor of McKinley and Roosevelt. Advice up to a late hour indicate that the Republicans have control of the legislature by three or four votes on joint ballot. This insures two Republican senators in place of John M. Thurston, whose term expires in March, and of William V. Allen (Pop.), who was appointed to occupy the seat of Monroe L. Hayward, who died before taking the oath of office.

Idaho has probably chosen Bryan electors by a small plurality. A feature of the later returns is the large pluralities given for the Republican electoral ticket in the states of the far west, where "imperialism" has no terrors, but some attractions. California is reported to have given 40,000 plurality for the McKinley electors, Oregon 14,000, North Dakota 12,000, South Dakota

BENJAMIN B. ODELL.

7,500, Washington 5,000 and Wyoming 4,000.

Kentucky has unquestionably given its electoral vote to Bryan, and Beckham, the Democratic candidate, has probably beaten Yerkes in the race for governor.

A striking feature of the result in Virginia is that Mr. Bryan carries the state by a plurality of several thousand less than the aggregate pluralities of the Democratic congressmen.

New York state gives McKinley a plurality of 145,243 and Odell 111,398. The Fifty-seventh congress will have a Republican majority of 22 in the senate and 43 in the house.

Corrected police returns covering all the boroughs in the city of New York show a plurality for Bryan in the greater city of 27,021, the same territory given Mr. Stanchfield a plurality of 44,908 over Odell. In the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx Bryan's plurality over McKinley was 27,805 and Stanchfield's over Odell 38,770. In Kings McKinley's plurality was 3,044, and Stanchfield carried the county by 2,386.

Not in many years have the Republicans had so large a majority in the senate of the United States as that which Theodore Roosevelt will call to order as vice president on March 4, 1901. For several years the Republicans have held precarious control of the body, and not until late in the last session did they feel strong enough in votes to grasp the patronage of the organization, which had been divided between Republicans, Democrats, Populists, Silver Republicans and Independents.

After March 4 the majority will be so large that it will be possible to pass any bill or other measure that has been approved by the party. Democratic opposition will be futile if it is determined to pass a Nicaragua canal bill, a shipping subsidy bill or an amendment to the gold standard law. And the gains of this year are so many as to practically remove anxiety about what may occur in the elections of 1902. It is scarcely possible that the Republicans can be deprived of their lead in the senate.

The Republicans will have two senators from each of 25 states, including Nebraska, and one senator from each of seven states. The Democrats will have two senators from each of 12 states and one from each of seven states.

The Republicans will have in the Fifty-seventh congress 200 members and the Democrats, Silver Republicans and Populists a combined strength of 157 members. This will give the Republicans a majority over all of 43. In the Fifty-sixth congress the Republican majority was 18. The Republicans have accordingly made a gain of 25.

The largest Republican congressional gains were made in New York and Pennsylvania. New York, which has 15 Republican representatives in the Fifty-sixth congress, will have 21 Republicans in the Fifty-seventh congress, a gain of 6 members, and Pennsylvania, which has 19 Republican members in the present congress, will have 26 Republican members in the Fifty-seventh congress, a gain of 7 members.

NEBRASKA.

A Close Election—Republicans Appear to Have Won.

OMAHA, Nov. 8.—Election returns in Nebraska are so close as to be watched keenly. Chairman Lindsey, for the Republicans, claims that McKinley has carried the state by 7,000 or more, the Republican state ticket has won by 5,000 to 7,000 and that the Republicans have a majority of 17 in the legislature. They claim the re-election of Mercer and Burkett for congress and the election of Pope, Morland and possibly of Hayes. Against this the Democrats claim Bryan carried the state, though by a narrow margin of perhaps not more than 1,000; that Fusion has a safe working majority in the legislature; that Fusion state officers are elected by 3,000 to 5,000 and conceding the re-election of Mercer and Burkett, that Fusion has pulled through Robinson, Stark, Shallenberger and Neville. The latter is the only congressman conceded by Republicans.

The legislature will be in doubt until complete returns are in. Indications are that it will be Fusion by a small majority. Both parties are claiming the lead on joint ballot.

A dispatch from Lincoln says: "McKinley has carried Nebraska by at least 5,000. Indications point strongly to the election of Charles H. Dietrich (Rep.) governor. The legislature is close, but it is probable the Republicans will control both houses on joint ballot. Chairman Edmisten of the Populist state central committee has practically conceded the state to McKinley."

KENTUCKY.

Governorship Still Claimed by Both Parties.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 8.—The Kentucky governorship is still being claimed by both parties at the state capital. The Democrats are claiming advice from Beckwith's election. From 4,500 to 6,000, while the Republicans claim the election of Yerkes by 2,500. Independent voters charge that the Republicans are holding back the returns in the Eleventh district and that the Democrats have done likewise in the First, the Republican and Democratic strongholds, respectively, each waiting for the other side to make a show down and that this is responsible for the delay in ascertaining the result.

A Western Union bulletin about Kentucky says:

"Returns from 75 counties complete, or nearly so, embracing 1,215 out of a total of 1,877 precincts in the state give Bryan 156,759, McKinley 137,245, Beckham 154,036, Yerkes 138,877. Of the 44 counties not yet heard from or reported so late as to be unreliable, 16 gave in the last presidential election 7,243 Democratic plurality and 26 gave 19,327 Republican plurality."

PENNSYLVANIA.

About 200,000 For McKinley—Quay Seems to Have Won Also.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Estimates from one-half of the counties in Pennsylvania indicate a plurality for McKinley of over 200,000. In this city the fusion of the Democrats with the Municipal league cut down the Republican county majority, but J. Hampton Moore for city treasurer and Jacob Singer for register of wills are elected by more than 30,000 plurality.

Pennsylvania's delegation in the next congress, according to latest returns, will stand Republicans 23, Democrats 4, a Republican gain of 6. In the Twenty-eighth district Congressman J. K. P. Hall (Dem.) is re-elected by an apparent plurality of 83, but the friends of A. A. Clearwater (Rep.) claim a victory for him, and the official count will be required to decide who won.

M. S. Quay's friends say they will have a majority on joint ballot favorable to his re-election to the United States senate, and the returns appear to bear out this claim. The control of the state senate is in doubt, with chances at present favoring Quay.

ILLINOIS.

Entire (Rep.) Has a Large Majority The Next Legislature.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Additional returns received show that McKinley's plurality will run close to 100,000, and that Yates for governor between 70,000 and 80,000.

Returns received from the state at large do not materially alter the political complexion of the next state legislature. The probability is that the Republicans will have a majority of about 22 on joint ballot, which means a Republican success.

cessor to Senator Culom. It is impossible at this time to give figures with strong assurance of accuracy, but the next Illinois legislature will probably be about as follows: Senate—Republicans, 34; Democrats, 17. House—Republicans, 79; Democrats, 74. The present house is Republican by ten, and the bold over senators give a Republican majority of eight in the senate, and the Democrats secure that with but slight gains they will be able to have a majority of one or two on joint ballot and thus replace Senator Culom with a Democrat. In the event of their obtaining the control of the legislature it is certain that Samuel A. Schuler, the defeated Democratic candidate for governor, will be sent to the senate.

The Republicans, however, claim that there is not the slightest doubt of their having control of the legislature and giving plausible figures in support of their assertions. Some of them claim 85 members of the house, but this is considered excessive by the conservative members of their own party.

Later advice may modify the result as given above, but present indications give the legislature safely to the Republicans.

Michigan.

DETROIT, Nov. 8.—Returns from the state up to 10 o'clock last night give President McKinley a plurality of 90,858 and Colonel A. T. Bliss, the Republican candidate for governor, 69,059. Colonel Bliss is running about 20,000 behind his ticket, and Mayor Maybury, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, is corresponding number ahead of his ticket. In 1896 McKinley's plurality in Michigan was 56,170. Governor Pingree ran 20,000 ahead of the Republican ticket that year, getting a plurality of 75,107. The Republicans have increased their majority in the legislature on joint ballot by seven. The Democrats have elected none of their senatorial candidates and only 11 out of 100 representatives in the lower house. Senator James McMillan's re-election by the next legislature is a certainty. The entire Michigan congressional delegation is Republican by largely increased majorities in most of the districts.

Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 8.—McKinley carried the state by upward of 60,000 plurality. The entire Republican state ticket was elected by pluralities slightly below that of McKinley. The Republicans have elected 15 congressmen sure and the Democrats 4 sure. The Democrats lose the notorious John J. Lentz by about 150 votes. The Democratic Third district and the Republican Twentieth district are still in doubt. Both the Third and Twentieth are confidently claimed by Chairman Dick and will probably go Republican. Congressman Burton was re-elected. His majority was not quite as large as in 1896. Burton ran ahead of his ticket in the wards which go to make up the Twenty-first district. There was never any doubt of his election.

Delaware.

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 8.—In Delaware the result of the election was a victory for Republicanism. The state gave a good majority for McKinley, and the Republicans won all the state offices by big majorities. Republican State Chairman Churchman claims the state by fully 4,000 majority. Wilmington went Republican by more than 2,000, and the entire Democratic ticket went to pieces in Newcast county. The composition of the senate is 3 regular Republicans, 6 Addicks Republicans and 8 Democrats, and of the house 7 regular Republicans, 12 Addicks Republicans and 15 Democrats. In one representative district there is a tie. On joint ballot there will be 10 regular Republicans, 18 Addicks Republicans and 23 Democrats.

Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—The vote of Massachusetts, returns having been received from every city and town, is as follows: McKinley, 239,495; Bryan, 156,507; McKinley's plurality in the state, 82,988. Vote for governor—Crane, 219,822; Paipie, 121,138; Crane's plurality, 98,671. The heavy Democratic gain is attributed to the return of the gold Democratic vote of 1896, while the anti-imperialistic sentiment, which also went to the Democratic vote, is thought to be represented in the 15 per cent Republican loss. The Democratic candidate for president ran over 35,000 ahead of the state ticket, while McKinley led Crane, the Republican candidate for governor, by about 20,000.

California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—The majority for McKinley continues to grow, and the indications are that it will reach 40,000. Complete returns from 1,574 precincts out of 2,180 outside of San Francisco give McKinley 107,992; Bryan, 81,248. The same precincts in 1896 gave McKinley 96,367 and Bryan 91,301. The legislature is Republican by a majority of 27. The senate contains 33 Republicans and 7 Democrats. The assembly stands: Republicans, 38; Democrats, 22.

New Jersey.

TRENTON, Nov. 8.—Latest returns from the different counties in the state indicate that McKinley's plurality is 55,000. The official county canvasses will be made on Friday. Corrected returns from Sussex show the election of Roe (Rep.) to the assembly and the re-election of Martin (Dem.) to the senate. The legislature will be 90 plurality. The next legislature will be as follows: Senate—Republicans, 17; Democrats, 4. Assembly—Republicans, 44; Democrats, 15.

Maine.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 8.—Returns from the outlying districts of Maine come in very slowly. There remain 113 cities, towns and plantations to be heard from. Figures from 314 cities, towns and plantations give McKinley 58,512 and Bryan 33,728. In 1896 the same towns gave McKinley 70,729 and Bryan 28,163. These figures show a Republican loss of 17 per cent and a Democratic gain of 20 per cent, indicating a probable Republican plurality of about 28,000.

Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 8.—A plurality of anywhere from 28,000 to 32,000 for the Republican national ticket and the election of Colonel W. T. Durbin (Rep.) to the governorship, the election of the entire state and Marion county Republican ticket, nine and perhaps ten out of 13 congressmen and the election of a legislature that will have a Republican majority of 40 on joint ballot is a summary in brief of yesterday's battle.

Colorado.

DENVER, Nov. 8.—Returns from election are slowly coming in, but sufficient returns and careful estimates have been received to show that Bryan's plurality will be from 30,000 to 35,000 and may reach 40,000. The Republican managers concede the legislature to the Fusionists by a majority of 50 on joint ballot. The Fusion (Dem.) and the whole Fusion ticket will have about 25,000 plurality.

Texas.

HOUSTON, Nov. 8.—The early estimate of 175,000 majority for the Democratic ticket in Texas is about correct, as indicated by the returns so far received. The only Republican congressman from Texas has been replaced by a Democrat, and the delegation will be solid. One Republican state senator has been defeated, and the legislature is composed entirely of Democrats.

Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 8.—Corrected unofficial returns from Rhode Island give McKinley 33,821, Bryan 19,947, making 1,388, Woolley 1,526, a plurality for McKinley of 13,874 in a total vote of 36,675. His plurality four years ago was 22,000, in a total vote of 54,780. He carried every city and town in the state, as he did in 1896. The vote this year is the largest ever cast in the state.

West Virginia.

WHEELING, Nov. 8.—West Virginia has gone Republican by from 12,000 to 15,000 majority. The entire state ticket is elected. The congressional delegation is solidly Republican. The legislature is Republican in both branches, 29 to 2 majority on joint ballot, insuring the re-election of Senator Ekins.

Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 8.—The congressional delegation from Mississippi will be wholly Democratic. The state conceded to Bryan by 45,000. There is little doubt that the amendment to the constitution changing the method of electing the common school fund was defeated.

Virginia.

RICHMOND, Nov. 8.—The additional returns received confirm the report that out of the Democrats carried the state by about 30,000 and elected their candidates in every congressional district.

Pettigrew's Opinion.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 8.—I predict the formation of a new party based on the protests of the country people against Republicanism as urged by Mark Hanna, declared United States Senator Pettigrew yesterday. He just left his home, to which he withdrew when the first considerable batch of telegrams arrived from South Dakota. "I saw how it was going and went home. For weeks I have told the national committee were defeated in South Dakota. No, I was not disappointed. I slept well last night. I will remain at the mill. Defeat is the new name to me, as it has come, this victory would have been if it came by indolence the sort of policy which the Republican party represents."

Mr. Bryan Silent.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 8.—With the exception of a short drive in the evening W. J. Bryan remained in his study during the day, rising late yesterday morning and retiring early last night. He said last evening he had no statement of any kind to make at present. Mr. Bryan received hundreds of telegrams during the day and evening from personal and political friends, but their nature was not disclosed. It is Mr. Bryan's intention to remain in Lincoln at least until thoroughly rested. To newspaper correspondents he was asked to be excused from outlining his future action.

Brisk Day at Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The stock exchange had the biggest day in its history yesterday, the total transactions amounting to conservative estimates, amounting approximately to 2,000,000 shares, which nearly 1,500,000 were actually traded. The market was very active, and the volume of business was unprecedented. The market was very active, and the volume of business was unprecedented. The market was very active, and the volume of business was unprecedented.

Large Importation of Gold.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The North German Lloyd steamer Kaiserin Augusta, from Bremen, Southampton and Cherbourg, which has arrived at the Island station, has on board the gold of $250,000 in gold, which was taken aboard at Southampton. Of this $250,000 is to order, and $200,000 is to the Hanover National Bank, this city.

A November Thunderstorm.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—A thunderstorm, with blinding rain and strong winds, accompanied by a deluge of rain, usually comes only in the stuffy days of summer, descended upon the city last night, playing havoc with the "oldest inhabitants," who insisted that lightning never comes in quantity in November. The storm was the severest since last season.

Big Money For Gold Mine.

DENVER, Nov. 8.—The Portland deal has been sold to an English syndicate for a sum approximating $15,000,000. The deal has been practically completed, purchasers being a combination of financiers, including company, London, of London, Werner, Bolt & Co., the South African firm, and a number of leading individual capitalists of London.

Buford Sails For Manila.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The United States army transport Buford sailed yesterday for the far east, carrying 900 recruits, a detachment of other corps men and a number of women. Buford will take about 50 days to trip between here and Manila, stopping at Gibraltar and other ports along the route for coal.

Election Returns in Cuba.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Chief signal officer, received the following dispatch from Colonel Greely, chief signal officer at Havana: "Full election returns covering the military forces last night from 20 minutes after their receipt in Havana."

A TRIUMPHAL TRIP.

President's Journey to Washington an Ovation.

WARM GREETINGS IN THREE STATES

Home City of Canton Gives McKinley a Rousing Send-Off—Brief Speeches to Admirers at Several Points.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—President McKinley's trip from Canton toward the national capital was one continuous ovation to the twice elected head of the nation. At every stop there were great outpourings of the people, business was suspended, and many factories along the line added their thousands of workers, men and women, to those who have joined in enthusiastic greetings. The president appeared at each stop, shaking hands from the rear platform and making short speeches at the more important towns. Mrs. McKinley received her share of the popular tribute, men and women struggling to present her with flowers. Patriotism, the flag and the volunteer's uniform figured everywhere, and the trip was in the nature of a triumphal journey to the capital.

The start from Canton was made at 1:35 p. m. yesterday amid the boom of cannon, the screech of steam whistles and the clamorous well wishes of the president's townspeople. Mr. and Mrs. McKinley occupied the private car Olympe. The rear of the train, giving a broad platform from which the president could greet the crowds and address them. The presidential car had been beautifully decorated within, yellow chrysanthemums bound in ribbons of red, white and blue giving a wealth of color. The train arrangements were in charge of Mr. T. E. Stone.

The president made his first speech of the day when the train arrived at Allentown. The town had turned out en masse to meet him with bands and banners. Workmen from the potteries at Sebring came in their aprons, bearing transparent signs showing their majorities. The crowd surged up to the train to the imminent danger of those massed in front. When the president appeared, there were deafening cheers, to which he bowed and smiled acknowledgment and then said: "My fellow citizens, I have not failed to observe the victory of Alliance given on yesterday, and I cannot refrain from expressing to you in public my very great appreciation of this vote of encouragement and support from my old friends and neighbors of Stark county."

"I observe that majorities rise with prosperity and that the American people never fail to support the flag. I thank you and bid you good afternoon." A short distance farther on the train stopped at Sebring, a new town, with huge potteries, built up, it is said, by the fostering of the American pottery interest. Business was suspended, and the workmen poured forth to join in the huzzas. A big banner announced, "Sebring Four to One For McKinley." The president waved acknowledgments, but did not speak.

In the big factory town of Salem the smoke of many stacks hung over the city, and the myriad of working men and women gave the place the aspect of a hive of industry. A vast concourse of people lined the tracks. The tops of freight cars were used as points of vantage. Little girls bore big American flags. The drum corps was a huge broom draped with yellow ribbons was carried at the head of the procession. Ladies struggled to throw bunches of chrysanthemums toward Mrs. McKinley. A young woman kept crying "Bryan!" in defiant tones, but her voice was faint amid the din. The screech of the factory whistles was deafening. The president bowed his thanks and when order was partly secured spoke briefly.

At Leontine and Columbiana there were like outbursts, crowds bowing the president's car. No speeches were made, but the president reached down and shook many a grimy hand.

A drizzling rain began to fall, but this did not deter big crowds from turning out at East Palestine, Enon Valley, New Galilee and New Brighton.

At Rochester 3,000 people braved the rain and darkness and gave a fervent welcome to the president during the momentary stop. Many of the crowd clambered up the rear platform after the train started and hung on until their turn came for a handshake.

It was pitch dark when the train reached Allegheny, but a big crowd was in waiting, and a delegation headed by Mayor Diehl of Pittsburgh and Mayor Ryan of Allegheny clambered aboard. The words received by the president, and warm greetings were exchanged. The president asked as to the results in Pennsylvania and evinced great interest when told that the majority would reach 300,000. He asked also as to Pennsylvania's congressional delegation and received like satisfactory assurances.

THERE WERE OILHEADS.

One Truly Unfortunate Fisherman's Luck While He Was Taking Home a Fine String.

He was an honest-faced young man who had been off for a day's fishing and was returning home with a reasonably fine string and much self-satisfaction. He had scarcely boarded the street car, however, when, according to the Boston Daily Globe, a passenger with a deep voice growled out: "Yes, I was out fishing myself one day last week. I brought home 20 pounds. I bought 'em of a regular fisherman!"

The young man with the fish was red-faced and uncomfortable, and as he was hitching around a man with a wart on his nose came out in a loud voice:

"Gentlemen, I don't deny that I love whisky, but I am not a liar! I get drunk and amash things, but I reverence the truth. Before I would lie about fish I would torture myself at the stake!"

Then a hatchet-faced young man roared up his eyes and exclaimed:

"They not only lie to the public, but go home and lie to their poor, innocent wives and trusting children!"

The honest-faced young man saw that all were against him, and he decided to leave the car. As he rose up to motion to the conductor a fat man who had been drowsing roused up and said:

"Gentlemen, I date my downfall from that one thing—from the first lie I told about fish. I hired a man to kill me a dozen with a crowbar, and then I brought 'em home and swore I caught 'em on my hook and line. I lied about it—deliberately and maliciously lied—and Providence—"

"All off!" shouted the conductor as the car stopped.

The car rolled on, and the young man with the perch and bass fishpole stood in the gloaming and looked after it and clenched his hands and gritted his teeth and whispered cuss words, and an hour later a pedestrian stumbled over something and got up to rub his knees and elbows and called out in amazement:

"Well, I'll be hanged if some liar hasn't stopped here to lie and gone and left his fish behind!"

THE SLEEPING GIRL.

Scientists All Over Europe Interested in Her Case.

For Seventeen Years She Has Not Changed Her Posture Nor Eaten Any Food—A Story of Love, Crime and Retribution.

Paris is mystified by a most extraordinary case of somnambulism, which is attracting the attention of the most serious physicians, and the history of which occupies columns upon the first pages of the most reputable French newspapers. "The Sleeper of Thénelles," is the title by which the somnambulist is known, and for 17 years she has slumbered in the quiet little town of Thénelles, watched over by a tender, devoted mother, who has never left her daughter during this long, terrible period of "living death."

Just 30 miles from the prosperous town of Saint Quentin, lies the Chicago Tribune, lies Thénelles in the bottom of a picturesque valley. The calm of the inhabitants who form the population is proverbial. At the end of the principal street stands the cottage where the sleeper, Marguerite Bouyenvall, sleeps. The building is modest—even poor—a one-story cement construction, ornamented with red bricks. Inside are two rooms, both heavily shuttered. In one lies Marguerite Bouyenvall as she has lain 17 long years—"the sick woman," as she is called by the peasants. The other room is occupied by six persons—the father, mother, brothers and sisters of the sleeper.

Mme. Bouyenvall, the mother, is an aged woman, whose face is saddened by the continued sleep of her daughter. She carries humbly but courageously her sorrow. She speaks in a whisper, so as to avoid waking her daughter, for, as sorrowful as is the sleeping, more terrible the mother fears will be the waking, when, the doctors predict, real death will ensue.

The sleeper lies on a bed and almost resembles a corpse. The face is long and yellow as wax. A white peasant's bonnet envelops the head. One side of the face reposes upon the pillow—it has never been turned upwards and while the mother changes the bed linen the posture of the daughter never changes. No sound of breathing is heard. By placing the hand the faint pulsation of the heart can be felt. The arms and limbs are not rigid and can be moved with ease and without causing the slightest sign of feeling upon the part of the sleeper.

To this day doctors and scientists dispute over the question: Is the state of Marguerite Bouyenvall that of catalepsy, lethargy, or simple sleep?

Many efforts have been made to force the sleeper to absorb food by the mouth, but the jaws are inflexible and refuse to move. Each day the mother injects a medical preparation which 17 years ago the physicians recommended. The daughter sleeps on, with no evident change, and it is difficult to say whether this preparation is efficacious in keeping the sleeper alive or not.

Marguerite Bouyenvall has a history. Love, crime and retribution are the indirect causes which led to her sleep. Betrayed by a soldier lover, the unfortunate sleeper, then a mere girl, murdered her baby. The crime, hidden, became known in the town and late one night a squad of gendarmes came riding to the cottage. Entering brutally, they surrounded the girl mother. Filled with fright, she fell in a swoon to the floor. Efforts to revive her were vain. The gendarmes gave up their victim to the doctors. After every human effort to restore her, the doctors in turn gave her up to her mother, who has remained the faithful guardian of her sleeping daughter. Dr. Charcot, of Paris, made many experiments without the least result. His investigations prove that all the digestive organs are completely destroyed, and it is claimed that should Marguerite Bouyenvall awaken she could not absorb the lightest food, and once awake would die from starvation. This is the terrible fear which confronts the mother. She prefers the living death to the certain tomb. The fear of death gives her the courage to keep her voice always in a whisper, to care for the sleeper, and to remain her guardian through the long years of silence.

Forte Rico's Quiet Election.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 8.—Governor Allen, in a cablegram of congratulation to President McKinley on his reelection, makes the following comment on the results of the election here: "I am gratified and delighted. The outcome in Porto Rico is a guarantee of the island's future. To bring people who had long been under different rules and conditions to their first general election, to have the election pass off as quietly and orderly as in any state of the north, conducted by the people without let or hindrance and without a soldier or armed force of any sort and to have nearly 60,000 men march to the polls to deposit their first ballots for self government in such a manner are good reasons for congratulation, not only to the people of the island, but to the painstaking members of the administration, who had worked diligently and patiently to this end."

Alaska Telegraph Line Completed.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—General Greely, chief signal officer, has received a dispatch saying that the military telegraph line has been completed from Fort Egbert, or Eagle City, Alaska, to the international boundary line near Dawson. The Canadian line extends from the boundary to Dawson and from that city southward to Skagway. There is a gap of about 35 miles in the line from Dawson to Quesnell, and the Canadian company is considering the advisability of covering this line by couriers during the winter. The building of the line had to be abandoned on account of severe weather. As the line reaches Skagway, it is within three days' sail of the telegraph office to Victoria, and this brings the troops of the United States at Fort Egbert within telegraphic communication with the department here, save the three days' delay.

Tried to Kill Her Husband.
BRISTOL, Conn., Nov. 8.—Mrs. John Kellain was bound over to the superior court in the sum of $3,000 on the charge of attempting to murder her husband, a Polish laborer of Terryville. Kellain was found seriously injured on the railroad track where it runs through a deep rock cut near Terryville. After he was taken to a hospital he accused his wife of having maliciously pushed him over the embankment, with the cry, "I'll fix you now." In court Mrs. Kellain denied her husband's story and said he was assaulted by a stranger who sprang suddenly out of the bushes.

Shouted and Died.

A Wedding of Two Dogs.
Patrick Ressler and Biddy Ressler, of the same name but not related, were married in Reading, Pa., by Alderman Houck. At the ceremony the bride seemed to become angry at the alderman and bit him in the ankle and the groom jumped up on the table and knocked all the ink bottles over. It should be known that Paddy and Biddy are thoroughbred fox terriers owned by Edward Ressler, the son of Lawrence P. Ressler, proprietor of the Eagle hotel. Mr. Ressler thought Biddy and Pat ought to be married. So he secured a license and then Pat and Biddy stood up before the alderman, who read the service slowly and earnestly and the twain were made one.

A Horse Killed by Bees.

A peddler, with a horse and wagon, stopped at the farmhouse of George Carson, near Columbia, Mo., and turned his horse out to graze, while he ate his dinner. The animal soon began to rush frantically around the field, he having been attacked by thousands of bees. The horse's head was presently a sight, swollen to an immense size. After a one-sided conflict, the animal lay down and died.

Slaves Dined on Terrapin.

Judge Page, of Maryland, commenting on a paragraph in the New York Press to the effect that in colonial times lessees of slaves were obliged by law to feed the negroes on terrapin at least twice a week, states that this was no studied compliment to the black men, for in those days the finest diamond backs were regarded as food fit only for slaves and hogs. In feeding them to the latter the terrapins were chopped up with a spade and served raw.

HIS RISE WAS RAPID.

Career of Count Buelow, Germany's New Chancellor, Considered Phenomenal by Europeans.

Count Bernhard von Buelow, who has crowned his rapid and brilliant rise to political power and fame by becoming the chancellor of Germany in the place of Hohenlohe-Schillingfurst, has the shortest career of any of the great statesmen and diplomats of the world. At 50 he finds himself at a pinnacle of eminence reached by others only after laborious and hazardous toil and waiting. Von Buelow until 1880 had done no better than serve as the secretary of embassy at Rome, St. Petersburg and Vienna. Until 1888 he had not reached the dignity of plenipotentiary, and he was then made minister to the insignificant post of Roumania. In 1893 he was appointed to the mission to Italy, where he remained several years. In 1897 Count von Buelow was selected by the kaiser for the post of foreign minister, and since that time he has been the emperor's right-hand man. During his ministry in the foreign office he has developed splendid capabilities in statecraft, which will have the freest play should he succeed to the station once occupied by Bismarck.

QUEEN WILL MARRY

Girl Ruler of Holland Has at Last Found a Bridegroom.

The Happy Man is Duke Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin - Announcement Was a Surprise to Court Society.

Queen Wilhelmina has proclaimed her betrothal to Duke Henry of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, a dashing young officer and a special favorite of Kaiser Wilhelm.

Duke Henry is tall, bright-looking and German in appearance. He is a lieutenant in the Prussian Life guards and is also attached to the Mecklenburg fusiliers.

The marriage will take place next spring.

The duke is scarcely known in Amsterdam and not particularly well at The Hague. It was rumored that the queen had selected his elder brother, Duke Adolf.

By betrothing herself to the duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin Queen Wilhelmina disappoints all the schemes of royal matchmakers. The name of the bridegroom selected has at no time been coupled with hers. The news of the engagement will bring disgust to a dozen or more highly eligible princes of royal families. Here are a few of them to whom she has actually been reported betrothed at one time or another:

Prince Frederick William, oldest son of the kaiser.
Prince William of Wied.
Prince Bernard Henry of Saxe-Weimar.

Prince Harold of Denmark.
Prince Nicolas of Greece.
Prince Eugene of Sweden.
Prince Alexander of Teck.
Prince Frederick Henry of Prussia.
Prince Adolph Bernard of Schaumburg Lippe.

Prince Louis Napoleon.
Prince Max of Baden.
The queen, in choosing the duke for a husband, has fulfilled the requirements of the law which demand that she shall marry a Protestant and that she shall be a prince of a reigning house. The Mecklenburg-Schwerins have been devout Protestants from the time of the reformation and they constitute a reigning family, though their principality is small.

DUKE HENRY OF MECKLENBURG-SCHWERIN.
(Engaged to marry Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands.)

Queen Wilhelmina celebrated the twentieth anniversary of her birthday on August 31, and it was then expected that she would announce her choice at the banquet given in her honor at Amsterdam. She only promised that she would do so before Christmas.

Not since Queen Victoria ascended England's throne, 62 years ago, have so many princes sued for one lady's hand.

It is absolutely imperative that the queen should marry without delay. The security of Holland, the permanence of the dynasty and the continuance of the country in quiet, monarchial ways depend upon this event. She is the last representative in Holland of the ancient and illustrious house of Orange, which is forever endeared to the Dutch people by the services of William the Silent. All her near relatives are descended on the paternal side from some German house and there is nothing the Dutch fear more than absorption into the German empire.

The young queen early showed symptoms of independence in the matter of choosing a husband. She rejected her cousin, Prince Bernard of Saxe-Weimar, because he was so ugly. Nevertheless, it was confidently expected that she would finally marry a man indicated to her for reasons of state.

It was reported some time ago that she would certainly accept the suit of the German crown prince. It is an open secret in court circles that she was deeply in love with Frederick William, a fact which was substantiated during her recent visit to Berlin, where they were always together. When Kaiser Wilhelm stopped at Schwerin after his visit to Queen Victoria it was rumored that a match had been arranged. It is believed that the queen declined on account of the deep-rooted antipathy of her subjects to the Germans and their fear of being absorbed in the German empire.

A Trifle Too Aesthetic.
An aesthetic English vicar at Wembley will not allow the word "died" to be put on the tombstones of the people buried in the cemetery. He insists on phrases like "departed this life" or "passed away," or "entered into rest," and says that "died" is a denial of the Christian teaching of immortality.

WHALE AND SWORDFISH.

Battle Was a Draw Until a Shark Aided in the Defeat of the King of the Deep.

A fight to the death between an 80-foot whale on one side and a thrasher, or fox shark, and a swordfish on the other, was witnessed a few days ago by the visitors and sailors on two yachts and the crews of some other small vessels outside San Francisco bay. All the witnesses agree that for thrilling interest the fight was ahead of anything they had ever seen or heard of. It lasted half an hour and resulted in the defeat and probable death of the whale.

The whale, and the swordfish, and the shark are ancient enemies, and fights between them are not rare.

TRIANGULAR SEA FIGHT.

(The Shark Seemed to Rise Twenty Feet Into the Air.)

However, it seldom falls to the lot of landmen to see a combat between the largest inhabitants of the sea, and many a sailor has spent his life on salt water without chance to see such a sight.

Part of the time the yachts were within 200 yards of the combat, and some of the other boats ventured even nearer, or the fish in their blind fury worked nearer them. All the time the water was churned into foam, and the spray was dashed high into the air as the whale spouted or the thrasher leaped into the air to fall upon its enemy. The whale's efforts were mainly directed to escape from the constant attacks of the smaller monsters. In his efforts to avoid the rushes of the fox shark he would try to sound, only to be forced back to the surface by the thrusts of the swordfish below. Every time he came up he would send forth a fountain of silvery spray. The same instant a column of water would be hurled upwards, as if by an explosion beneath the surface, and in the column would appear the gray body of the fox shark, spreading its two wing-like fins. The shark seemed to rise fully 30 feet into the air, and, turning as a diver would when leaping from a springboard, would fall muzzle first upon the back of the whale, and the two would sink beneath the surface. That sort of fighting went on for fully 30 minutes. The thrasher kept right after the whale, and the swordfish waited below until he had a chance from that vantage.

After about 15 rounds of that sort of battle, as one of the sports on board one of the yachts put it, the whale began to lose interest, and seemed willing to call it a draw. But the shark was game, and kept right after him. The whale began to lumber along, not up to his speed, and it was plain that a dead heat would satisfy him. But the shark was a Fitzsimmons. Finally the whale turned, belly up, and he was done for. He sank like a foundered ship. He simply could not withstand the slugging of the mighty head of that shark, falling 30 feet upon him, and the thrusts of the swordfish from beneath.

CROWN PRINCE GUSTAF.

Appointed Regent of Sweden and Norway During the Illness of His Father, King Oscar.

The Swedish council of state has called Crown Prince Gustaf to the regency of the country during the illness of King Oscar. Prince Gustaf and the crown princess, with their eldest son, went to Christiania, where the crown prince opened the storking and took the oath before the house of representatives. King Oscar's condition is critical.

Crown Prince Gustaf is 42 years old. His wife is Princess Victoria of Baden, to whom he was married in 1881. His expressed opinions of policy are anything but favorable to Norway. Less than a year ago he made a speech in which he openly declared that he was willing to lead an army which would forever crush the desire of the Norwegians for independence.

OZONO!

King of Hair Dressings.

BEFORE

WHAT IS OZONO?

A preparation prepared solely and distinctly to improve the condition of the hair of the negro race. Not a worthless, offensive, obnoxious, greasy mass of injurious nostrums, but a delicately perfumed unguent, beautiful to look upon; made to adorn the lady, polish the gentleman, benefit youth, and gladden old age. OZONO straightens knotty, nappy, kinky, refractory hair. OZONO does this alone. No hot irons are necessary; no plastering down with grease. OZONO induces the hair to grow long and straight, soft and fine, and beautiful as an April morn. It will cure all itching, burning, humiliating Scalp Diseases, Dandruff, Tetter, Scurf, and Eczema. It cannot live after OZONO has been applied. It is as pure as the dew-drop, beautiful as the morn, and harmless as the rippling water in the babbling brook. Cleanliness is next to Godliness; filth is a crime. If your hair is short and harsh and kinky; if your scalp is covered with scurf and dandruff, or itch, or eczema, it is doubtless your fault alone. If your little ones' heads are a mass of crusty, scaly, flaky scurf, teeming with germs and microbes, that are invisible to the naked eye, but which are sapping the life from the hair and destroying it forever, and you allow this state to go on, it is a crime. It is your place to stop this—a duty you owe to yourself, to your child, to your Maker. OZONO is your remedy. OZONO will positively and permanently remove all the diseases, and straighten and beautify the hair, making it silky and glossy and black as the raven's wing. OZONO, as compared with other hair remedies, stands as high as the mountain peak, fair as the lily, and glorious as the sun. OZONO is King. The price is 50c. a box. It requires about four boxes to complete the treatment.

OUR GRAND OFFER.

Write to us at once, enclosing the small sum of ONE DOLLAR, and we will immediately forward to you four large boxes of OZONO. We will also send you one large bottle of ELECTRIC SKIN REFINER, which makes rough skin soft and brightens the blackest skin, making it several shades lighter. Now, there is much fraud practiced with face bleaches. Understand, we do not advertise this bleach to make one white. God alone can accomplish this, and it would be miserable. Unpin your faith from frauds. We assert that our Refiner will soften rough skin and brighten black skin, but it can do no more. Take our advice; don't fool with any bleach that is advertised to make you white; it is more apt to poison you. We will also include one fancy jar of ELECTRICAL SKIN FOOD, which is a sure remedy for all Skin Eruptions, Pimples, Black Heads, Liver Spots, and all Skin Diseases. It will remove Wrinkles, Scars, Facial Blemishes, and will positively take out Small-Pox Pits. This is saying a great deal, but it is true. It makes the old look young and the young look younger. And, lastly, to prove our liberality, we will add a one-pint package of ANTI-ODOR. This remedy removes all smells and odors arising from the human body. Its uses are too numerous to mention. Full directions go with all goods. This grand aggregation is worth $3.50. Send $1.00, mention the name of this paper, and you will get the goods at once. We ship all orders same day goods are received.

We wish to state that we are a thoroughly reliable firm, having many thousand dollars in our business. We refer to the editor of this paper, or to any business house in Richmond. Our remedies and our business is founded on the altar of truth. Write your name and address plainly.

KING OF TRAINBOYS.

He Robs Returning Miners on the Klondike Limited.

The Worst Chicago Loan Shark Could Take a Course of Instruction from Him on Turning Over Money to Advantage.

The old query as to whether or not you would like to be the iceman will be rapidly forgotten as soon as song writers and balladists learn about the train boy in Alaska. There is a train boy in Alaska. Just one. Or rather there was a few weeks ago, but by this time he may be somewhere in the Mediterranean on his private yacht blowing rings from his 50-cent cigars, and swearing at his $3,000-a-year sailing master because he cannot whistle up a breeze.

Think of being the only train boy on a railroad that brings miners with thousands and thousands of dollars' worth of gold out of the greatest mining camp in the world. There is only one railroad to Alaska—that is the White Pass and Yukon railroad. On that railroad there is a train called the Klondike Limited.

The Klondike Limited! Isn't the sound of that name enough to make a common candy butcher on the run between Peoria and Lafayette, Ind., stick his head into his basket of salted peanuts, and strangle himself to death. For there is a train boy on the Klondike Limited. On the Klondike Limited that brings prospectors and miners and adventurers weighed down with golden nuggets back to the states and civilization, and the girls they left behind them, there is a candy butcher. And all these prospectors and miners and adventurers on this Klondike Limited are bubbling over with joy that the days of their exile are over, and that soon they will be back to their boyhood homes again. Think of turning loose a candy butcher in such a crowd as that. To quote another popular song: "It seems like a shame to take the money."

The train boy on the Klondike Limited, like his brothers on the Kenosha local, deals in peanuts, candy books, papers and magazines. But more than that he sells shirts and collars, and bright red neckties. He also has a full line of whiskies and plug tobacco and cigars of the finest cabbage selected leaf. The train boy does not like to sell cigars. He only gets 50 cents apiece for them, and they cost him 75 cents a hundred. He just sells the cigars to show he's a good fellow. He didn't originally deal in shirts and haberdashery, but he found that the miners returning to civilization yearn madly for a "billed" shirt. So after he had sold the shirt off his back, together with his collar and red necktie, for $100 he decided to carry a stock of shirts and ties.

There are stringent restrictions in Alaska in regard to selling whisky, and so the train boy doesn't sell it. He gives it away, and lets the man who drinks it tip him for his trouble in pulling the cork. If the men were to give him a nugget any smaller than the size of the cork the train boy would haughtily refuse to let him buy any more cigars, and would charge him at least $5 for a two months' old newspaper, which he ordinarily gives away for only $1.50.

Then the train boy sells playing cards, and the passengers are always wanting a game. He puts up the table, too, hands around the matches, and, of course, a large and substantial "kitty" is maintained on one side of the table for the sole support of the obliging train boy. If anybody was to put a quarter or a silver half dollar into the "kitty" the train boy wouldn't be angry. He uses those things to pay store keepers for fresh goods for his next run.

A Seattle newspaper man interviewed the train boy on the last trip from Alaska. Quoth the train boy: "Am I it? Am I? Say, ain't I a naughty boy? I know it's wrong to take the money, but I need it in my business, and, besides, as soon as I get enough I'll buy the railroad and give some other good deserving boy a chance to fasten onto a little honest money. But $1 for a sack of peanuts. Say, that's a penitentiary offense in Illinois. But I need the money."

ALTOGETHER TOO SHY.

Queer Excuse Given by a Pretty Girl for Whom the Bridegroom Waited Long in Vain.

Mary Pliska, shy as a chamois, donned her wedding dress at her home in New Britain, Conn., the other evening and made all preparations to accompany her parents to the cozy little home that Michael Neidboler had prepared for her and there to be married to him.

Michael and his friends were waiting. It was to be an eventful marriage, for Mary was pretty and Michael was popular. When the bride and her parents were not on hand at the appointed moment, the prospective bridegroom was made the object of jests. He laughed with the jesters

AND THERE HE FOUND MARY. (Connecticut Girl Who Was Too Shy to Be Married.)

When five minutes had passed the jests became more pointed and the shafts of witicism sank deeper, but still Michael laughed. When ten minutes had passed, and then 15 minutes, and then half an hour, Michael was decidedly uneasy.

Then a messenger handed a note to Michael. He suddenly left, without giving an excuse, and went directly to the home of Papa and Mamma Pliska. They were in a state of great excitement.

They could not find Mary! She had robbed herself in her wedding gown with her mother's assistance, and then, when her mother left to put on her hat, Mary mysteriously disappeared.

Michael thought deeply. At last he asked the parents if they had gone to the home of a chum of Mary. They had not. But they were sure she had not gone there. Nevertheless, Michael got into a carriage and drove rapidly to the home of Mary's chum.

And there he found Mary—all dressed in her bridal robes, with a bunch of real orange blossoms in her hair, crying her pretty eyes out.

Michael asked her why she had not come to the house. She cried in answer. He asked her again; and then, amid her sobs, she told him she had feared to face the crowd that would witness the ceremony.

Michael left without a word. He drove back to his cottage, told the guests what had happened and that the wedding was off. Some of them suggested that he take the priest to the home of Mary's chum and be married there. But Michael told them he did not care to marry a girl who had insulted him before his friends.

And the marriage ceremony has never been performed.

Millionaire Ziegler, Who Will Spend a Fortune on Expedition, Convinced He Will Reach Pole.

William Ziegler, the New York baking powder manufacturer, who is willing to spend $1,000,000 on the Baldwin expedition to the north pole, which will start next year, says he is sure Baldwin will not return without having reached the pole. "I am a business man," he said, in an interview in

WILLIAM ZIEGLER. (Baking Powder Magnate Back of the Baldwin Expedition.)

New York, "and accustomed to look at things only from a business standpoint. If I did not feel absolutely sure that this expedition will be successful I would not waste my money and Mr. Baldwin would not waste his time. The race to get to the north pole first is not a race between two or three men; it is a race between nations. I do not want to see an Italian or a Norwegian reach the north pole first. I think this country is great enough and progressive enough to have that honor. It is simply a matter of national pride with me. I have every confidence in Mr. Baldwin. He is a man of determination and will get to the pole if it is within human power to do so. He will not turn back and come home."

BATTLING FOR LIFE.

Widow of Stonewall Jackson, Famous Southern Hero.

Has Recently Undergone an Operation from Whose Results She May Not Recover—Her Home Life at Charlotte, N. C.

Some weeks ago the widow of Gen. Stonewall Jackson had a critical operation performed in a Baltimore hospital, and her friends are afraid that she will not recover from its effects. Although now over 70 years old her face, according to a Charlotte (N. C.) correspondent of the Chicago Chronicle, retains much of the beauty which enthralled the then awkward, diffident young military cadet from Lexington when he first met her as Anna Morrison at the home of Gen. David Hill. Her black, luxuriant hair has few traces of gray and her black eyes are piercing and lustrous still.

Since the death of Mrs. Jackson's only child, Mrs. Christian, several years ago, she has devoted her life to her grandchildren, who reside with her. Her home is a plain two-story building on Trade street, Charlotte, N. C. To the unpretentious dwelling, however, a picturesque charm is given by ivy and Madeira vines climbing all about the veranda, violet bordered walks leading to the hospitable doorway and stately magnolias casting their luxuriant foliage over the whole. Within is the refined atmosphere of a typical southern home. In the drawing-room the most conspicuous object is a large oil painting of Gen. Jackson. Portraits of other heroes whose memories are still sacred in the hearts of old confederates are also hung everywhere upon the walls, interspersed with tattered flags and other trophies of the lost cause.

Here the widow of one of the great military geniuses of the world has passed her peaceful days, busied with her household duties or superintending the education of her grandchildren.

In her "Life of Jackson" she said: "The home of my girlhood was a large, old-fashioned house, surrounded by an extensive grove of pine forest trees, on a plantation in L. county, N. C. My father was Rev. Dr. Robert Hall Morrison, the first president of Davidson college. He was a graduate of the university of the state, and of the same class as President James K. Polk, Bishop Green and others of note in church and state."

Mrs. Jackson's mother was Mary Graham, daughter of Gen. Joseph Graham, of revolutionary fame, and sister of Gen. W. A. Graham, who was once secretary of the navy.

Mrs. Jackson was one of ten children, six daughters and four sons. She spent much of her early life in Washington with her uncle, Gen. Graham. While on a visit to Lexington, Va., she met her future husband then Prof. T. J. Jackson, whom she married in July, 1857. Gen. Jackson died in 1863, May 10, and left his widow and one child, a girl, Julia, who was but a few months old. The two and the skillful old nurse Hetty returned to the Morrison home in Lincoln county, where they lived a quiet life until Julia was ready to enter college, when the mother and child moved to Charlotte. After finishing school Julia married W. E. Christian, a talented newspaper man, now in the service of the Seaboard Air Line railroad at Portsmouth, Va. Mrs. Jackson lived with the young couple in St. Paul, Minn., Minneapolis and other western towns up to 1889, when Mrs. Christian died, after which she returned to her home in Charlotte and brought with her Julia and Jackson Christian, her grandchildren. Miss Christian, sister of Mrs. Jackson's son-in-law, came to live with her.

Mrs. Jackson's Charlotte home is very near the Southern railway station, where an aged Mexican war veteran, who served under Jackson as a soldier for years as guard. He took great pride in guarding Mrs. Jackson and lost no opportunity to point out the house to strangers. The house is a plain two-story frame building and the yard is adorned by several beautiful evergreen trees. When at home Mrs. Jackson lived a simple but pleasant life, surrounded by her bright grandchildren, who are now off at school.

Mrs. Jackson spent part of every year at Lexington, Va., her health permitting. It was there that she spent her married life and where her husband and daughter are buried.

Mrs. Jackson is an ideal southern lady of the old school. She is president of the Daughters of the Confederacy and regent of the Daughters of the Revolution.

A BOTTLE ROMANCE.

Its Ending Did Not Please the Man Who Started It.

He Lost His Sweetheart and the Man Who Picked Up the Magic Beer Bottle Found a Fair and Loving Wife.

'Twas a bitter stroke of the irony of fate that Ernest Norton in romantically consigning his sweetheart's name to the river, sealed in a bottle, should have thereby united her to another man, a stranger.

One afternoon in midsummer Mr. Norton, Miss Grace Newhausen and three equally sentimental Council Bluffs (Ia.) couples who have nothing to do with this story embarked in company on the excursion steamer Jacob Ritchman for a trip down the river.

Mr. Norton, says the New York World, was in his most romantic mood. He began rhapsodizing about the river and the hundreds of miles it traveled to reach the sea, and the resemblance it bore to human life, and the many human eyes that looked upon it in its course; and he quoted Longfellow, and took off his hat and let the wind muss his hair up until pretty Miss Newhausen was quite carried away and pressed his arm and whispered that he was a real poet.

Emboldened by success, Norton wrote her name and address on a piece of paper, waved it above his head and declared that it would consign it to the water so that the mighty river should carry her fame to the southland, and so to the open sea.

He rolled up the paper, slipped it into the bottle and fastened the patent rubber stopper. Then with a fine gesture he flung it far over the rail so that it reached the water.

The bottle went bobbing its way down the Missouri river toward the sea, not pausing by night or day. And Grace Newhausen's name remained inside safe and dry, for the stopper was a good one.

But it was not destined to reach the sea, nor even the Mississippi. As it neared St. Joseph, Mo., it drifted near a pleasure skiff in which Harold Truax was rowing with some friends.

FLUNG THE BOTTLE OVER THE RAIL.

Truax plunged his hand over the side and captured the bottle. With his pocketknife he wormed out the piece of paper and read what was on it.

A girl's name and address—how romantic! Grace Newhausen—sounded as if she might be pretty. And it had traveled all the way from Council Bluffs! How romantic!

Yes, Truax is the third romantic person in this story. Otherwise he would not have pondered and pondered over Grace Newhausen's name, wondered what she was like and why she had thrown the bottle in the river, and ended by writing her a nice little note telling all about it, inclosing his photograph and asking her to send him one of her own.

Miss Newhausen felt more romantic than ever over Truax's letter, especially as the portrait was that of an agreeable-looking young man. She replied in a similar spirit, and the correspondence waxed warm.

Here were two romantic people in heartfelt communication; but poor Norton, who had started it all and prided himself on being so romantic—poor Norton who had launched the beer bottle on its career—was out of it.

And out of it he remains, for Miss Newhausen has become Mrs. Truax.

HOPE LONG DEFERRED.

When Riches Came at Last George Wedekind Had Lost His Capacity for Enjoyment.

Luck, as it is interpreted in the mining camp, has been emphasized in the case of George Wedekind, of Reno, Nev.

Years and years ago, when George Wedekind was young, he went west in a fever for gold. All up and down the famed coast country of the California he wandered, bootless. The gold was not for him. As the country settled he drifted from town to town, tuning pianos. It was his trade. He brought his wife to Reno, finally, and the two settled down to the scant existence that piano tuning in a western town afforded.

UNCOVERED A GOLD MINE.
(After Many Years Fortune Smiled on George Wedekind.)

Wedekind was 72 years old when one day he went hunting. Even the game had suffered from the civilization that had come to the state and then gone to such measures as to leave it a population less than it had when admitted to the union. He was discouraged with hunting and was returning moodily homeward. Climbing down the side of a bluff his foot slipped—

And uncovered a gold mine! He saw the unmistakable "color" in the yellow earth and he staked right and left. Reno awoke to a new gold fever and the stakes were planted everywhere that they had not been driven before. One hundred thousand dollars was bid for his first claim and the old man and his wife are said to be worth $1,000,000.

But long years of hardship have discounted this great sum. Privation and makeshift means to live have so affected the old people that they have little capacity for enjoyment of their great wealth. They live in the same little house in the same frugal way that they had lived for 30 years or more. They have better food and better clothes, but the old man's chief pleasure is to "potter" around the mine, while the wife sits with folded hands looking across the alkali plains, day-dreaming.

MCKINLEY, ROOSEVELT and HOME INDUSTRIES.

A CAMPAIGN SONG FOR 1900, COMPOSED BY R. C. O. BENJAMIN, EDITOR OF STANDARD, LEXINGTON, KY.

[For the W. Calvin Chase Republican Club.]

[Tune, "Hold the Fort."] McKinley is our standard bearer, A statesman, soldier, too, Reverberated throughout the Nation, Redoubtable and true.

CHORUS.
Hold the fort for home industries, Bill and Tiddie will; Sweep the States from Maine to Kansas, By our votes they will.

Brilliant, valiant, great and noble, See our leaders name; On this mount of fame immortal, North and South the same.

CHORUS.
Roosevelt, the bold Rough Rider, On to victory grand, Reassures a troubled Nation Triumph is at hand.

CHORUS.
Loyal men of Massachusetts, McKinley's acts adore, And with Maine and California, Sing from shore to shore.

CHORUS.
Iowa and Pennsylvania, Colorado true, Join and shout for Bill McKinley And for Teddie, too.

CHORUS.
Jersey, New York, Indiana, Take Arkansas, hand, And with Tennessee and Georgia Praise Ohio's man.

CHORUS.
Illinois and Mississippi, Now no more apart, But with patriotic feeling, And one in hand and heart.

CHORUS.
Oregon believes in fair play, New Hampshire says, alas! Old Kentucky can not count The honest votes he cast.

CHORUS.
The Carolinas want protection, Virginia wants the same; Ohio guarantees the contract In Bill McKinley's name.

CHORUS.
Now we'll wave the starry banner Over every foe, Shout hurrah for Bill and Teddie, Hear the bugle blow.
